

New elements do not show up after VQL import

Revision 20200604

NOTE

This document is confidential and proprietary of Denodo Technologies.
No part of this document may be reproduced in any form by any means without prior written authorization of Denodo Technologies.

Copyright © 2024
Denodo Technologies Proprietary and Confidential

Content

After modifying any element using the Virtual DataPort Administration Tool or the Web Design Studio for example by using the File > Import menu or the VQL Shell you might experience that the newly created elements do not show up immediately. The reason is that a Refresh must be done in order to retrieve the updated metadata information from the server.

To perform such a refresh, click on the File > Refresh menu from the client tool that you are using.